About Deep River

Located along the scenic Connecticut River, Deep River is a town that dates back to 1635, with a history that is rich and filled with intrigue. Sloops and schooners were built here. They sailed to Africa and back, returning to Deep River with ivory tusks for the town's burgeoning business in the manufacture of combs and piano keys.

Deep River is an old mill town. The former Pratt Read Manufacturing Company, converted to condominiums in recent years, still stands along Main Street. The Lace Factory located near the banks of the Connecticut River, produced the highest quality lace. Period homes scattered throughout town recall an era of commerce and community that led Deep River to be called Queen of the Valley.

Although large manufacturing has largely disappeared over the past half century, many small businesses have taken its place.

Deep River Come Visit Us!

Deep River is located along the Connecticut River which is an ideal spot for boating. The Town Landing Park where Kirtland and River Streets intersect has a boat launch, out look platform and a lovely gazebo.

Whether you live in or visit Deep River, supporting local commerce and experiencing all that our town has to offer helps to keep our small community thriving. Shop locally.
